Canada's Interest In Europe

For many generations back the people of Canada and the United States with few exceptions held the view that they were but little concerned in the affairs of Europe and that what nations and people they might or might not do was of little importance to the residents of North America. Of course, men of affairs and those engaged in international trade and finance were better informed, but the great mass of people gave little heed to European quarrels and economies, except as matters of news appearing in the papers.

The Great War breaking with startling suddenness in 1914 was a rude awakening, and the humblest and most remote home on this continent was made to realize that the human family was one after all, and that what deeply affected the people in Europe was the immediate concern of all. Not merely during the war years but since the Armistice that lesson has been painfully impressed upon our people. True, a certain school of political thought in the United States still seeks to maintain the old traditional policy of American aloofness from all participation in European politics and affairs, and they were powerful enough politically to keep the United States out of the League of Nations, and also strong enough to foist upon the big Republic a renewed declaration and tariff policy calculated to shut out as far as possible all foreign goods.

The more observant, far-seeing, and better informed people realize, however, that in these modern times of instantaneous communication and means of rapid transportation, no nation can live solely on itself. In matters of trade, for example, it is now recognized that not only must production and consumption be fairly balanced in a country in order to maintain a condition of prosperity, but that there must be an economic equilibrium maintained throughout the world. Production and consumption must go together if the balance is to be kept right.

Business goes on when the various productive elements are properly balanced, and when different kinds of things are produced in right proportions. A great productive country is also a great consuming country if its equilibrium is maintained, but the substantial over-development or serious injury of any great industry throws the whole thing out of gear, and then depression and demoralization follow.

The world is suffering from such a situation today, because, on the whole, less is being produced than before the war, but there is a relative over-production of farm products and raw materials. This is due, not to conditions in America, but because of the fact that Europe, the world's great manufacturing centre before the war, and the world's great market for farm products and raw materials, has partially withdrawn from her pre-war position. She is turning out very much less of manufactured goods than before the war, she is consequently unable to buy raw materials and farm products in normal volume from the United States and Canada. As a result there is depression not only in Europe but in this country. We are therefore vitally interested in a revival of normal conditions in Europe and in everything that helps or retards it.

It is reasonable to expect improvement in Canada, even without improvement in Europe. This country, with its diversified industries, its wealth of resources, its great producing and consuming power, with its sound credit system, and its highly intelligent people, must forge ahead, and there is, therefore, no occasion for pessimism or lack of courage. None the less, we cannot have really satisfactory business or anything approaching real prosperity until Europe is decidedly on the mend. We are part and parcel of a great world economic system, and distress anywhere reacts on us.

Under these conditions there are those in Canada, as the enactment of the recent high tariff demonstrates there are many in the United States, who believe that a remedy is partly to be found in tariff enactments designed to protect ourselves, and this country has recently by a leading economist before the Missouri Bankers Association, have a bearing on this subject and are worthy of being quoted as emphasizing how vitally interested Canadians ought to be in the rehabilitation of Europe. "We are, therefore, vitally interested in a revival of normal conditions in Europe and in everything that helps or retards it."

"Prices of wheat and cotton and hogs and other articles are determined, not in the domestic market, but in the great world market. Canadian wheat competes with American wheat quite as effectively at Liverpool as it does at Chicago, and with Chicago and Liverpool in cable communication a delivery of Canadian wheat at Liverpool will break the price at Chicago quite as effectively as if it came directly to Chicago. It does no good to keep Argentine wheat out of New York if that Argentine wheat can come to Liverpool and so limit the market for American wheat at Liverpool."

Which only goes to show how interdependent all countries are, whether of Europe or America. Instead of fearing an inflow of goods from Europe to America, this economist declares it would be the most welcome thing that could come about, because a revival of manufacturing industry in Europe would immediately create a demand for the raw materials of all other countries, resulting in a revival, not in one country alone but in all agricultural and raw material producing countries. With such a revival their capacity to absorb manufactured goods would increase.

At the present time with farmers and producers of raw materials unable to sell on profitable terms, they are also unable to buy in normal quantities. As Europe at present can only pay for farm products and raw materials with manufactured goods, we must accept such payment for our surplus products for export. The conclusion cannot, therefore, be escaped that, if a vigorous revival in Europe could be induced with a resultant revival on the part of our farmers and producers of raw materials, our domestic market for finished manufactures would also rapidly expand, and our own manufacturers would be much better off sharing an expanding market with European competitors, and would sell more goods and make larger profits, than they will by having a stagnant market exclusively to themselves.

German Coal Output Drops

Decrease Ascribed to Reduced Number of Working Days
Coal production in the Ruhr district of Germany during June amounted to 7,078,361 tons, as compared with 8,981,951 tons in May, and with 9,556,385 in June, 1913. Average daily production had fallen from 355,415 in June of the pre-war year to 310,844 last May and to 298,036 in June. The decrease in output for the month is ascribed to the reduced number of working days, the average production of June being only 12,800 tons lower than in May, and 35,800 less than in March.

THE WAY TO BE WELL

Good Health, Maintained Through Rich, Red Blood

There are many men and women who, every few weeks, have spells of weakness, during which time they are little better than invalids; yet at other times they feel very well. Why does their health fluctuate so?

In the case of men worry and overstrained nerves are usually responsible for this state of unfitness and inability to face the anxieties of daily life.

As for women, her back aches, she is dizzy with sick headaches, and often has stabbing pains in the side. The only real health in all the year-round health; and the secret of it is good, red blood and plenty of it. One who keeps her blood in good condition is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. There is scarcely a nook or corner in Canada where someone will not be found who will tell you the benefit they have had through the use of these pills. And the reason is that through the improvement of the condition of the blood they strengthen and tone up the nerves of worried, enervated men and women, and at the same time have given new vigor to pale, delicate girls and thin, weak boys. The value of this remedy is innumerable conditions is shown by the statement of Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Walton, N.S., who says: "When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a weak, bloodless and nervous condition suffering from all the depressing symptoms that accompany this rundown state of health. I had taken much medicine but it did not do me any good, and as I had a family of five children, I was much discouraged. Then reading about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them, and I can honestly say that I feel these pills have saved me from prolonged misery. My health is now good, and we now keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house for use as a family medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Several Forms of Sugar

Many varieties of sugars exist, cane sugar, maple and beet. Palling these we have corn sugar under the name of glucose or dextrose, and the same in vegetables, fruits and honey. In a brownish powder we find it on prunes or raisins.

Lactose or milk sugar is another principal sugar, although it will never fill an important place in commerce. It exists in cow's milk, and plays an important part in nutrition.

It has Many Qualities—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself.

Tragedy of Loneliness

One of the great absurdities of civilization is the fact that on every hand men and women are slowly dying of the cancer of the soul known as loneliness. There is something awfully lonely but magnificent about the loneliness of mid-ocean. There is something terrible but inspiring in the loneliness of a mountain top. But loneliness in the midst of a crowd is one of the most dreadful tragedies to which humanity is heir.—London Daily Express.

Long Distance Aerial Flight

Plan Aerial Race Around Edge of Civilized World For Next Year
Although planned as a pioneering flight, something in the nature of an aerial race around the edge of the civilized world will take place next year, possibly in the spring, according to Col. L. E. Broome, noted British aviator. He has completed arrangements for the flight between Canada and Japan, and has a complete map for the guidance of the aviators, with data on air harborage, trade winds, ocean conditions, fog and wind forecasts and storm actions.

Broome predicts that three, if not more, machines will attempt the flight, which is being arranged by a syndicate of wealthy Old Country aeronauts for love of the sport and in the interests of aviation in general. The Broome party, it is planned, will fly from London, going through France and the Near East over the route followed by Major Blake, who was recently forced to abandon his world flight because of illness.

It is probable that the affair will be turned into a race, though that would be regretted, stated Col. Broome. The Air Ministry is likely to be represented, as well as one or more of the British aircraft manufacturers.

Peat For Commercial Use

Peat Beds in Canada Cover 37,000 Square Miles

Following a visit to the Canadian Government Peat Plant at Alfred, Ontario, Honorable Charles Stewart, Minister of Mines, is of the opinion that peat is rapidly becoming a commercial fuel. He states that a high grade auxiliary fuel is now being turned out at the plant. Scientific tests have shown, Mr. Stewart stated, that 18 tons of peat are equal in heating value to a ton of anthracite. While not recommended for use in the furnaces in the coldest weather, it is good furnace fuel for use in the fall and spring months. It cannot be surpassed for use in kitchen ranges and in fireplaces.

The total area overlain by peat in Canada, is estimated at 37,000 square miles, of which 12,000 square miles of an average depth of 6 feet are in Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick. The Mines Branch Department of the Canadian Federal Government, claim that seven bogs within shipping distance of Toronto are estimated to be capable of producing 25,000,000 tons of fuel, and seven bogs in the vicinity of Montreal and Ottawa could provide 23,000,000 tons.

Whales Found on English Farm

May Have Ascended Small Stream With Outlet to the Sea

Farm hands digging celery on a farm near Peterborough, England, recently came upon the skeletons of two whales, dating back, it is supposed, 10,000 to 12,000 years. The whales were lying side by side under the peat, and just embedded in the clay. It is conjectured that many thousands of years ago these whales, and perhaps others, swam up a creek, when the wash came further inland, and got caught at the top of a spring tide in a place where they were unable to turn. Another theory has been advanced, though it is rather far-fetched. Some years ago a prehistoric boat was dug up in the same field, and the suggestion has been made that the crew of the boat was hunting the whales at that particular period.

Says She Hasn't Felt So Well In Years

Mrs. Margaret Winton, highly esteemed resident of 719 Tenth Ave., West, Calgary, Alberta, pays glowing tribute to Tanlac for the wonderful appetite, perfect digestion and splendid health she now enjoys.

"I just can't say or do enough," she stated recently, "to show my appreciation of Tanlac for what it has done for me. Almost a year ago my appetite failed and my stomach became so disordered that nothing agreed with me. After every meal I would have severe pains in the pit of my stomach and bloat so badly I could scarcely draw a good breath. I ate so little and had digestion so bad that nearly all my strength and energy left me. My nerves were a wreck, too, and I could never get a good night's sleep."

"When I began taking Tanlac I was so run-down that I simply had to drag myself through the day and my house work was a dreadful burden to me. I also suffered with dull headache and felt unfit for anything. But since taking Tanlac everything is different. I have a wonderful appetite, perfect digestion, and an enjoying splendid health. In fact, I have now felt so strong and well in years as I do now. Tanlac has won my life-long praise. Tanlac is sold by all good druggists."

The Allied Debt To The United States From The Standpoint Of Equity

When considering this problem, however, we are faced with a fundamental question. That the debt is technically due, no one denies. But is it morally and reasonably due from the standpoint of equity? Let us look into its merits.

Most of us, I think, consider that even from the outbreak of the war the men of Britain and of the Dominions were fighting the battle of the United States, as well as of our own Empire, and of our Allies. We have all heard Americans also express that opinion. Though it took some years for their people, as a whole, to recognize that fact, it was as true in August, 1914, as it was later when the gallant boys of both nations were fighting side by side. Germany aimed at world dominion, and had she won the war, her political and commercial control of all Europe, all Africa and much of Asia, would have been at once established. She would have been the Colossus of the world. Her eyes were already fixed covetously on South America, and developments there would have followed rapidly.

While the naval, military and financial resources then at her back, what would she have cared for the Monroe doctrine? It would, however, be hardly reasonable to claim that the United States should have entered the war at its outbreak, for the people had not been sufficiently informed as to the merits of the struggle prior to the Lusitania incident. What would have happened, however, if the United States had intervened then? The war would have been shortened by two years, millions of lives and tens of billions of dollars would have been saved, the condition of the world today would not be what it is, and this problem of the war debt would, in all probability, not have arisen.

When the United States at last threw its vast power into the scales that great addition to the cause of civilization and righteousness was decisive. When their Government did act, they acted vigorously and wholeheartedly. We are all ungrudgingly appreciative of the part played by them in bringing the war to a conclusion. It was some considerable time, however, after they declared war, before their armies could be organized, trained and transported to France, and during that period they could render but little help other than financial.

For whom did the Allies sacrifice the lives of their men before the United States entered the war, and from that date until the American troops arrived? For all who did not wish a German world, for all free people, including Britain, Canada and the United States.

The war was fought not merely with lives, but with money. The financial burden fell chiefly on Britain. She had to advance huge sums to her allies. Had she not done so, Germany would have achieved a speedy victory, and the turn of the United States would then have come. Much of this money was spent in the United States before the history of the world did any nation have such a stupendous stream of wealth poured into its lap. And this money was the life blood of nations who were giving their all, but not for themselves alone.

If we are right in believing that the United States had as great a stake in the war before she entered it as afterwards, we may well ask whether it is fair that the Allies should bear alone the crushing financial burden of even those earlier years, during which the United States accumulated much of the wealth of the world. Surely their awful losses in life, before the United States lent a single man, are enough of a handicap.

But the case is much stronger. The huge sums borrowed in the United States before April, 1917, are not in question. The debts we are considering are credits granted to the Allies by the American Government after it had itself entered the war. These advances were chiefly for munitions with which to fight the acknowledged enemy of the United States. Had the American armies been then in France, these guns and shells could have been used by them, but the Americans were not yet there in force, and the Allied armies used them for the benefit of all. In doing this, these French, British and other troops saved the Allied and American cause from defeat. Because American shells were fired against the common enemy by British soldiers (great number of whom gave their lives in doing so), does it follow that they must also be paid for by British taxpayers?

It may even be claimed that part of the money was used to feed the Allied troops and peoples. Can men fight, and at the same time cultivate their fields, or work at other occupations? We used to hear of American "Soldiers of the Soil," and were told that these men saved the Allied cause as they were in France. If they had been in France, there would be no talk of charging the Allied Governments for their services.

If the United States insists that Britain pay, Britain in turn must of course require her debtors to pay. Do Americans expect payment, from France, which has bled at every pore? The suggestion has also been made that Britain should transfer her West Indian colonies in payment of the debt. What would they think if Britain were to demand the transfer of some of the old French colonies in return for cancelling the debt of France to her?

Britain does not suggest that these crushing debts be cancelled unless the American people consider that such cancellation would be a reasonable part of their contribution. They do not wish the money to be written off as a bad debt. If the American Government considers that the money should be paid, I am sure that the British Government will pay to the last dollar, though it is necessary to add still further to the taxes on her already overburdened people. In such an event, the British Government would not doubt be proudly silent, but that would not mean that the people of either Britain or Canada would consider the decision to be exactly what might have been expected of a great, proud and rich nation.—The Khaki Call.

They are, however, sometimes troubled with summer complaint, diarrhoea, and such like, but I always find there is no cause for worry as I just give them two or three doses, no more, of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and the trouble soon disappears. It is a remedy that all mothers should keep in the home for the children."

The Value of Courtesy

Quality Most Needed for Social and Business Success

We have had some discussion lately, in connection with hotels, of the value of courtesy in business. The same quality plays a large part in other spheres. Professor R. K. Srajal, Professor of Law in Allahabad University, and a member of the well-known Indian family of that name, discussing the question of what binds India to the Empire said he believed the strongest was the Royal family. When pressed to give the reason for this, he answered, "I think it is because of their extreme courtesy on all occasions. If the majority of Englishmen in India represented the courtesy of the King, just as the King represents Christian courtesy, we would not have unrest in India." If courtesy is one of the chief factors in binding the British Empire together; surely it is a quality worth cultivating.—Orilla Packet.

Device to Protect Engineers

Pocket Canister Perfected for Use While Running Through Tunnels

Experts on gas fumes have developed a pocket canister or respirator to protect locomotive engineers and their helpers when passing through tunnels. Tests show that the discomforts will be alleviated and the dangers lessened by the new device, which is a great improvement on the old "pig snout" type containing wet sponges to cool and absorb the gases.

The canister, which fits snugly into a coat pocket, is filled with an absorbent mixture of activated charcoal and soda lime, and contains filters of turkish towelling. Men who have been trying out these respirators for months are pleased with them, because they are easily and cheaply made and have proven effective.

Cotton monoxide, one of the constituents of smoke, is poisonous, tasteless and odorless and penetrates any of these canisters yet tested, but it has been found during the Government tests that this gas was not in sufficient quantity to be dangerous.

Dairy Cow Record Breeders

Greater Interest Taken in Milk Production on the Part of Breeders

How interest has grown in the improvement of the pure-bred dairy cow is shown by the increased number of owners and breeders whose names figure in the report for 1921-22 of the Record of Performance of Pure-bred Cows kept and published by the Dominion Livestock Branch. In the report for 1919-20 the number was 247, but for 1920-21 it was 336 and in 1921-22 it was no fewer than 468, making an increase of 90 per cent. in two years. This shows at once not only accelerated interest in milk production on the part of the breeders of dairy cows, but also in the economy of the dairy, seeing that the keeping of records has become widespread.

Planting Shelter Belts As A Preventative Of Droughts In The Prairie Provinces

"It's not the water we get in a dry country that is important; it's the water we keep," so said Principal Bracken, of the Manitoba Agricultural College, two years ago at the 89th Current dry farming convention.

A most important pronouncement this, on a most important subject for it crystallizes into one short, pithy sentence the secret of successful agriculture on the prairies. Given a sufficient rainfall there is no question about the crops. This is as well recognized as anything can be. And the converse is equally well known; decrease the water supply and the crops decrease in proportion, even to the vanishing point in some years.

But when we talk about keeping the water, these questions are naturally suggested, "How are we likely to lose it?" "What is likely to happen to it?" "What is to take its place, keeping it?" and "Where is it likely to go?" We know where it comes from; the rain and the snow is the answer to that, but what becomes of that rain and that snow? That is the point, and following up by implication, Principal Bracken's phrase, it is a most important one.

Take the snow first. We have heard of places where snow has been known to fall on the tops of fence posts, and pile itself up to a depth of two feet, staying that way all winter waiting for wind to blow it off. That isn't the way it happens on the prairie. Usually the wind comes with it, and not only does it not stay on the tops of the fence posts, but often it does not even stay on the ground where it falls. Where there is stubble, a lot of it is caught and we are delighted to see it and begin to talk of the fine prospects for a crop next year. But six inches of stubble does not hold much snow. In fact, when it comes to actual quantity of water preserved, the six inches of stubble only holds about half an inch of actual rainfall. The balance blows away to form drifts in the coulees and the crests of the hills, where it melts in the spring and finds its way to the creeks or the sloughs.

There was abundance of snow last winter all over the prairie country, without actual measurement. Is that the greater part of it? It appeared to be along the ridges of the coulees or behind the snow fences of the railways. Up in the bush country there was some two feet of snow on the land all winter that did not blow away into any coulees. On the prairie fields it did, the water it melts into, the snow and the water it melts into, is so sorely needed, and instead of being available for the use of our crops most of our winter rainfall is now on its way to Hudson Bay or filling up the hollows in the fields, lost entirely for the use that Nature intended it. And why the difference? Another very easy question. For in the north there are plenty of trees and the wind has no chance to blow the snow off the ground where it belongs. The trees make the difference.

That was a very significant report by Mr. Tinline, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Scott, Sask., which appeared in the April (1922) issue of the Canadian Forestry Magazine. "There is three and a half times as many potatoes inside the shelter belt as compared with the open field under parallel conditions in 1920 and 1921." He says: "I do not know of any other factor that entered to influence the crop yields other than the fact that they were grown inside the windbreaks. The snow does collect to quite a depth during the winter months, the hedges being seven to eight feet high."

Here is evidence of the highest order as to the values of trees helping to produce crops in dry years, and there are doubtless many other instances scattered throughout the west, where men have noted benefit arising from storing snow over wintering behind a tree shelter. Many a man at least, has experienced it in his garden. Near Alaska, about the peak of the dry records in Saskatchewan, there are a number of men who have grown fine crops of vegetables, raspberries, strawberries and other garden stuff in the driest years, simply because they have been able to preserve the snow behind a belt of trees, i.e., because they have been able to keep the moisture they get.

Careful records are kept of the water we get, and have been for many years, but beyond that we have no information. Yet we all know Principal Bracken uttered a most profound truth when he emphasized the need of keeping our water. Surely it is time we gave some real attention to this matter. Anybody that has given it any thought knows that tree belts preserve moisture and might go a long way to help solve some of our dry farm problems if the proper steps were taken.

Is it not time something were done about it?—Is it not possible to try it out on a scale big enough for a real test, say, a township or a section or two? Even if it only proves a failure it should be done. A great many people believe it would be of very great benefit at least locally, through the more level country.

So far nothing has been said about preserving the rainfall in summer, but we know Prof. King, of Wisconsin, found the evaporation from the soil to be from 25 to 65 per cent. less behind the shelter of a belt of trees, and Carlos Bates, found the saving to be as high as 70. These are important savings in a dry country. Is it not time something was done about it?—By Archbishop Mitchell, in Canadian Forestry Magazine.

Livestock, Wool and Bacon

Steady Tone Is Reported in Sheep Market

The noticeable feature of the market, as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch, is the steadiness and strength displayed for sheep, top prices at all the principal centres ranging from a dollar to three dollars up compared with the same time last year. At Toronto the top prices on August 24 were $12.50 against $10 last year, Montreal $10 against $8, Winnipeg $11 against $10.50, Calgary $10.25 against $7.75, and Edmonton $9 against $8. All other top prices for livestock were either about the same as last year except for tops of calves at Toronto, which were $2.50, and hogs at Calgary and Edmonton, where there was a deficiency in tops but a sameness in averages. The branch reported an improvement in the consumption of wools from the west, especially as regards the amount of steady and reject wools, not more than one per cent. having graded steady this year, while the percentage of bright and sun-bleached wools in all the grades was well up to the average. On the whole the western grades this year are considered a particularly attractive offering. Cattle reports as regards bacon show steadiness in demand but little change in prices, best Canadian selling at 140 shillings, the long hundredweight, United States at 122, Irish at 162, and Danish at 122 shillings.

A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What is the cause? Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick—possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils.

Danderine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women, and cleans every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick and long. Danderine is delightful—not sticky or greasy. Go to any drug store and get it. It's free. Have healthy, beautiful hair and look of it.

THE PLUGGER.

He isn't very brilliant and his pace is often slow. There's nothing very flashy in his style. He has to dig and labor for the things he wants to know. And he's busy learning something all the while. The clever men go by him in a hurry day by day. And the stars get all the mention and the fame. But the patient, steady plugger in a quiet sort of way keeps on going, and he gets there just the same.

He is slow in getting started, he must know the reasons why. Certain things occur within a certain way. There is nothing in his method to attract the passer by. And at times you'd think he's wasted many a day. But when brilliant men have faded, and the stars have lost their light. When the clever men have stumbled in despair, When the great have come to failure with the goal they sought in sight, You'll find the patient plugger getting there. — Edgar Guest

The patron of a butcher shop in a neighboring town detected a piece of bark in a sausage he had bought at the butcher shop, and went to the shop to inquire what had become of the rest of the dog. The butcher is reported to have been so affected that he could only give him part of the tale. A careful observer of things in this world hands in the following facts he has observed concerning the women folks:

She will live longer with an underserving mate than any known animal. She will forgive oftener than an angel.

She will make herself ridiculous if she thinks it attractive.

She will pay 15 cents carfare to get a four dollar article for $3.98.

And she will go to heaven and be lonesome.

L. O. O. F. HALLOWEEN PARTY GREAT SUCCESS

About seventy Oddfellows and their friends attended the L. O. O. F. party Tuesday night when the hall was filled with a jolly crowd. Tables were arranged and those that wished played progressive whist for the first part of the evening after which Mrs. Pryce Jones gave two solos, and Mrs. J. H. McPherson, of Riley, gave a very interesting talk on the advantage of organizing a Rebecca Lodge for the ladies. After partaking of a parcel lunch the floor was cleared and the balance of the evening was spent in dancing. We understand that some sixteen applications were received for members for the Rebecca Lodge. It is the intention of the members of the local lodge to repeat the social evenings at intervals during the winter.

THE NEWS WE WANT.

"One of our correspondents wants to know the kind of news we want. We print a list of subjects below which will be of much assistance in writing news to the paper. It would be a good idea to cut it out and keep it in mind.

Births, deaths, accidents, robberies, marriages, land sales, school news, church news, confagurations, visiting abroad, public meetings, family reunions, society meetings, real estate sales, conditions of crops, visitors from abroad, anything of general interest, something good about people. Remember when sending in news for publication, we want it to cover the following: Who? What? When? Where? How? Also remember that the contributor must sign his name to all items sent in. No attention will be paid to unsigned letters, several of which hit our waste basket every once in a while.

Special care should be taken in the spelling of names, and in the writing of words such as "Miss" "Mrs." and "Mr." so as not to get them confused. We want a correspondent in every locality in the district to send us the news of interest to their community. It helps to boost your neighborhood and lets others know that you are live wires and it helps us to give you a better newspaper representative of the whole district. So let us pull together. Send us your items under head of your locality and we will gladly publish them.

All items should be in the office by Tuesday forenoon of each week.

Robert Stead's Greatest Book

IN HAPPY NOVEL OF THE NORTHWEST

"Neighbours" is Nearer the Heart of Canada than Any Other of Famous Canadian Author's Books.

Romance of the Last Great Tide of Settlement in Saskatchewan Country is Big Theme.

You will never have to ask that question, "What is Canadian literature?" again when you have read Robert Stead's latest and, so far, his greatest novel, "Neighbours."

There are few Canadians who are not familiar with this author's former novels, "The Homesteaders," "The Cowpunchers," and "Dennison Grant."

ROBERT STEAD.
Author of "Neighbours," "Dennison Grant," "The Cowpunchers," "The Homesteaders," etc.

Grant." This new book runs true to the Stead tradition of a good story, real humour, pure love and a real idea—even some real mystery, and it has more of the real atmosphere of life in it, than any other which has come to us in a long while. It is true writing, and will add fresh laurels to the fame of this already well-beloved author.

"Neighbours" relates how two families of young people, brother and sister, neighbours, in a little Ontario town; neighbours, fifteen years later on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country, find life and love. Their stories run smoothly until a young Englishman settles in the community and upsets all expectations, including the reader's. But the best part of "Neighbours" is in my mind, and what makes it a great book, is the picture of the people who make up that far-scattered "Neighbourhood" of homesteaders, like the old villain who finds "locations" for the gullible newcomer; the "sheezies" are a gaudy big-eyed folk family who live in a cave that the precious live-stock may have builded shelter—and the widow, and the Scotch farmer—and the wedding! All of that is writing of the finest type, and places this Canadian book in high order among the best literature of today.

AVONGLEN

Judging from the enormous crowd in attendance the dance on Friday, October 27th was a decided success.

Avonglen has always been noted for its large crowds at social events, but this was the largest yet and G. Hipperson is receiving the congratulations of his friends these days for providing a social hop of this class.

Miss Rachel Briggs who taught school at Orindale some years ago, was renewing acquaintances at Avonglen Friday evening.

Word has been received from Cliff Allen who left two weeks ago for B. C., that while visiting at his Uncle's place, near Miller he was the unlikely victim of an auto accident which left him with his right arm out of joint in two places. He says he had a little sleep and when he awoke he was carrying his right arm in a sling and does not expect to be able to use it for two or three weeks.

Three other parties were in the car when it turned over but escaped injury.

A meeting of Avonglen Ladies' Society was called Tuesday P. M. to wind up the business of the year.

Mr. F. Peterson returned to Irma last Tuesday night after spending nearly three months with the Alberta Government Publicity Department which sent an exhibit of Alberta Products and pictures to the principal cities in Montana, Utah and Idaho. Mr. Peterson reports that the exhibit drew big crowds of enthusiastic spectators at all of the cities in which it was shown. The Department have received a large list of prospects for the cheap farming land in Alberta.

Saturday night Mr. R. Smallwood, H. Kastin and R. A. Larson left Irma with eight cars of cattle which they shipped through the U. G. G. Co. to Winnipeg. Wednesday night Mr. Marshall left with nine more cars which he and Mr. Hatch, the local butcher, have secured from the farmers of the district. If the price of cattle had been anything like normal many of the farmers would be better shape to liquidate their liabilities. As it is they have been compelled to ship out many young cattle which will leave them short for shipment next fall.

Bar B Ranch,

Since making my last entry I have had two new experiences.

Number one: I forced the Hansche River.

Number two: I dined, chaperoned of course, in a bachelor establishment of the most bachelorish sort.

While we were having luncheon on Friday Mr. Bingham told us that he was going to the Paget ranch during the afternoon, and that we, Mrs. Bingham, Sunny, and I, might go with him if we wished. You will notice that he did not ask us to go, but merely intimated that he would tolerate our company. But we went. Even so indifferent an intimation is not enough to discourage Mrs. Bingham in her search after something to break the monotony of ranch life. And I, too, an heir to separate Mr. Bingham's manner from his motive.

My only hesitation was due to a fear that Mr. Paget might not care to have us drop in on him unexpectedly, but Mrs. Bingham soon reassured me on this point. Mr. Paget had given assent to our return some of his numerous calls, but I find it very hard to come into the informality of Canadian social life, and it seemed very strange to come to him like a wolf on the fold. Of course we should stay for dinner after going such a distance, and suppose he did not have enough to go around? Even the best of housekeepers are sometimes embarrassed by unbidden guests, and a mere man—would he use to picture his probable confusion as my imagination pictured it!

Mr. Paget's ranch is on the west side of the river, and the crossing of the ford was an ordeal, I must confess. I hope I am not a coward—but when the horses seemed to be making no headway against the stream, and the water splashed into the wagon box, it took all my courage to enable me to appear unconcerned. We crossed the river diagonally, and the rush of the water gave me an uncanny feeling, as if we were being carried downstream. Either because he was used to an exhibition of "nerves" on the part of women crossing the ford for the first time, or because he noted that I was not speaking, Mr. Bingham stopped in mid-stream and turned around in his seat long enough to say to me, "Don't watch the water, Miss Eliot; look at the horses' heads, or at some point on the far bank of the river." I followed his advice, and the result was that I saw the sinking, floating sensation left me—but not the fear of what would happen should we miss the ford. I was sincerely glad to feel the good old solid earth under me again when we reached the shore.

Sunny and I heaved sighs of relief in concert as soon as we were out of the water. "I do wish Uncle Lee could build a bridge like they have in Winnipeg," said Sunny. "I've asked him, and asked him, and asked him, but he never does. That nasty old ford makes me feel like when I'm dreadfully hungry, and when Mary took me down in the elevator at Eaton's I felt exactly the same way."

Sunny has her sensations more carefully classified than I. The three feelings are very much alike, but until she mentioned the likeness had not occurred to me.

As the cross fells it cannot be more than three or four miles from the Bar B to Paget Park. But it is ten miles by the road, which follows the winding of the river all the way, and it was after four o'clock when we reached our destination.

Mr. Paget, in white ducks, met us at the door and conducted Mrs. Bingham and me to the drawing-room. I suppose I should call it, and then went with Mr. Bingham to put up the horses.

The house is a good-sized one, but most of it is shut up. No one lives in it but Mr. Paget and a greasy Chinese servant, as different in appearance from our Lee as day is from night. And the house gives ample evidence of how far he is behind Lee in skill and cleanliness.

"I wish Mother could see that drawing-room!" It is as dusty and untidy as a room could well be, the window-curtains were soiled and wrinkled, and papers and books were scattered everywhere—we had to empty our chairs before we sat down. The dining-table, which occupied the centre of the room, was still covered with the cloth from luncheon—from a good many luncheons, to judge by the stains. It was a very shabby couch, whose succession of hills and hollows reminded me of the road between Caden City and the Bar B. was placed across one corner, and was adorned with a saddle and a pair of riding boots. A broom and a dust-pan leaning against the wall behind the couch, to be well out of the way of temptation, I presume. And in the open doorway was the plan of a very fine baby grand, on which the most critical of housekeepers could not have discovered a speck of dust—no, not a speck, but a sad sight to the eye. An upholstered armchair, evidently suffering from senility, was filled with a mangle, all kinds—good, bad and indifferent—to suit the catholic taste of its owner.

"How nice your grand piano is, Sing!" said Mrs. Bingham lightly, as I stood amazed. "Not quite what you expected, is it? White muslin draperies and blue ribbons would seem to be more appropriate, for our Beau Brummel, would they not?"

"It is simply dreadful!" I exclaimed. "What would his people at home say if they could see how he lives?"

Mrs. Bingham shrugged her shoulders. "I've seen it much more than this. And when you've lived in Canada for a while, you will cease to wonder at the way in which a well-bred man will live when he has no women to look after him."

"But Mr. Paget has money, hasn't he? Surely he could hire someone to keep the place presentable," I objected. "Any way, one can be reasonably clean without spending a great deal of either time or money."

"So long as he has his tub and lots of clean clothes he is satisfied to let Sing neglect everything else about the place," Mrs. Bingham replied. "That heathen Chinese wastes enough in the housekeeping to run a summer hotel, and still he never prepares a good meal. But he is an excellent 'washwoman,' so Mr. Paget will not let him go. If you ever want to hire a Chinese servant, Miss Eliot, choose as carefully as you would choose a husband."

At this point the men came back. Our host was apparently delighted to see us, and very impatient that we should stay to dinner. He was not at all put out by his surroundings, so I soon forgot them too. After chatting for a few minutes he took Mr. Bingham away to "the library"—what sort of a place is it, I wonder—and there they remained until Sing stouched in to lay the table for dinner.

Lee wears his pigtail in a neat coronet braid, but Sing's hangs down his back, and flaps in a most laughable manner when he walks.

"Put a clean cloth on, Sing," ordered Mr. Paget.

"All right," replied Sing with well-bred indifference.

"Where's the cream?" was the next suggestion.

"Clean all gone—cat drink it."

"Oh, by Jove, that's too bad! But there's no use crying over spilt cream. Is there, Miss Eliot?" Open a tin of condensed milk, Sing. The Un- opener is in the carriage shed."

For dinner we had tinned tomato soup, not quite warm, delicious mutton chops, tinned pork and beans, bread and butter, tinned plum pudding, tinned coffee with condensed milk and ginger ale.

Why can't the brick throwing suffragettes realize that in Western Canada they would find an excellent outlet for their energy? I think seriously of writing to Lloyd George with the suggestion that he should confine the leaders of the militants in insane asylums and ship the rank and file to Canada. Given a hundred and sixty acres of land and a man to look after, they would soon see the folly of brick-throwing—and the first thing they knew the franchise would be handed to them, wrapped in white tissue paper and tied with gold cord!

We started for home in the early evening, and so reached the Bar B before dark. The evenings are very much longer here than in England.

I am sorry that it was not dark as we drove home, for just as we left Paget Park I had a glimpse of the rainy side of ranch life. A small herd of thoroughbred Durhams were standing near the trail, and Mr. Bingham stopped the horses so that we might admire them. Of course I had known for years that cattle were branded with hot iron, and since coming here I had found it very interesting to decipher the various brands on the horses and cattle and to speculate upon their former history. But I saw the poor little calves in this herd I had never realized just what the branding meant to the cattle, which calf carried on its side an ugly raw burn, bleeding in some cases, and sore-looking in all. And the flies—I cannot say about it, it is too shocking. I wonder if Mr. Livingstone ever branded a calf?

Sunny and I raided the kitchen when we reached home. Lee had just taken a baking of bread out of the oven, so we had hot bread and butter, marshmallows and tea with "cream" in it. Lee looked on with interest. "Sing really had Chinaman, heep had took," he volunteered sympathetically.

Subway For Tokio

Transportation Made Difficult By Congestion Near Capital

Tokio soon will have an underground electric railroad similar to that of other world capitals if plans now under way reach fruition. Japan is experiencing a growing congestion of population in and near the capital which makes transportation a difficult matter. Her evolution from a strictly agricultural people to a nation largely industrial has brought increased numbers of people into her cities, and the jam in Tokio is getting to be serious.

Painless and perfect in their action, Miller's Worm Powders are always a safe and reliable remedy for children who show symptoms of worms. These symptoms are easily recognizable in a feverish restlessness, frequently ending in convulsions. A point of notable importance is that after Miller's Worm Powders have expelled the worms, the stomach and bowels are toned up into a very healthy condition.

Cure For Temper

A novel cure for temper was mentioned by Richard G. Lovell in a lecture in London on "Color as Applied to Personal Attraction." He said that civilization seemed to have dwarfed appreciation of color, and the ordinary man was nearly tone deaf, and taken the trouble to cultivate color. Mr. Lovell added that a test for color was to get into a temper and go into a room of various colors. In the red or green room temper would last, but in a blue or mauve room it would soon be lost.

Toronto Woman Gives
Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I suffered with irregular periods, was weak and run down, could not eat for two or three weeks, and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging-down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy, and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman, use them as my plea."—Mrs. J. F. Praxay, 387 King St., West, Toronto, Ontario.

Various forms of female weakness many times make work almost impossible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women over these troubles.

Captures Mountain Goat

New Addition is Made to the Geological Collection at Calgary

Calgary is believed to be the only city on the American continent where additions to the civic zoo come right into town and deliver themselves. From time to time deer, lynx, coyotes and other denizens of the mountains, prairies and forests, including an American eagle, which was captured by a Calgary dog, have paid visits to the city and lost their freedom. The most recent addition to the zoo to arrive unheralded was a young mountain goat, one of the least approachable of wild animals which was captured in a local back yard, and is now installed at the zoo.

The ordinary housefly is reputed to be the cleverest of insects, its intelligence surpassing that of the ant and the bee. An authority asserts that it can think two times quicker than a man.

Safety Vault Defies Burglars

Greatest Storehouse in London, England, Is Wonderfully Constructed

One of the most wonderful storehouses of treasured possessions is in London, England, and is known as the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit.

For a fee of from a guinea upwards anyone can store his or her belongings in the Deposit, which is so constructed and guarded that no burglar, however clever he may be, could ever hope to break into it.

The 10,000 safes which the Deposit contains are protected more elaborately even than the Crown Jewels or the bullion at the Bank of England.

The basement of the building is divided into a series of strong-rooms, each of which holds 500 safes. No safe can be opened except in the presence of the depositor and an official of the Deposit.

The strong-rooms weigh 500 tons apiece, and their locks are set to open only at a given hour in the day.

Each strong-room is detached from its neighbors, so that an armed patrol can walk below, above and around it, mirrors reflecting every movement in the vicinity.

In addition to these precautions, the whole of the outer shell of the Deposit is specially reinforced with armor-plating. A pretty tough proposition!

Some of the safes contain incredible sums, running into millions. The diamond merchants of Hatton Garden nearby deposit millions of pounds' worth of precious gems in the course of a year.

Probably $125,000,000 is not too high an estimate of the value of the contents of the building at the present time.

Canada's Methods Are Sound

Speaking of the Canadian dollar returning to par, the New York Herald, after specifying various reasons for this consummation, thus concludes: "Canada is prosperous because her finances and her business conditions and methods are sound. ### Wireless and Weather

The most attractive theory as to the cause of weather in the North Temperate Zone attributes the birth of cyclones to a constant struggle between cold polar air and warm currents coming up from the south. Professor V. Bjerknes, the Norwegian proponent of this view, has insisted on the need of a complete chain of stations round the globe. The stations are now in existence, and are being linked by "wireless." We may be on the brink of a remarkable extension of scientific knowledge and of its practical applications.—London Times.

What Picnic Means

Word Originated From Custom Dating Back to 1802

Most people know what it is to enjoy a picnic; not all can tell how the name of this form of entertainment originated. The explanation, according to one derivation, is simple. When a picnic was being arranged it was the custom for those who were to be present to promise to supply food and drink. A list of the things necessary was drawn up and passed round, each person picking out the articles he or she would supply. The name of the article was "picked" on the list—that is to say, a mark was placed against it. The open-air entertainment thus came to be known as "Pick and nick." The custom is said to date from 1802.

Preservation Of Fruit and Vegetables

Valuable information for Housewife Contained in Government Bulletin

Farmers' wives, and, in fact, housewives generally, would probably find a deal of worthwhile information in Bulletin No. 93 of the Dominion Experimental Farms. It deals with the Preservation of Fruits and Vegetables for home use and gives the results, with the recipes, of experiments in canning, drying, pickling and preserving carried on by the Horticultural Division of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Facts will be found there relative to sterilization for the prevention of spoilage and souring, for the methods best to be followed in canning and in jelly making; for the preservation of vegetables by fermentation and salting; for home drying, and as to the relative value of different varieties of fruits and vegetables when canned and preserved. The bulletin can be obtained at no cost by making application to the Publications Branch, Ottawa.

U.S. Tariff Will Prove To Be a Boomerang

Canada's Trade Will Be With Motherland Now, Instead of United States

Canada has paid very little attention to the new United States tariff, for the reason, as was pointed out by the Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion, that the bill passed a year ago made the exportation of many of our Canadian products practically prohibitive, and that any additional duties levied could not have any further effect.

It was pointed out by the Deputy Minister that the United States has not the power to injure our wheat exports, as we have a ready market overseas. On the contrary, the immediate effect of the emergency bill passed a year ago, has been that Great Britain has taken the place of the U.S. as the best customer of Canada. We must look more than ever to the Motherland for a future market for our Canadian products.

New Fruit Commissioner

Geo. E. McIntosh Promoted to New Position

Mr. Geo. E. McIntosh, who has for the past five years occupied the position of Transportation Specialist of the Fruit Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, has been promoted to the position of Fruit Commissioner. He succeeds Mr. C. W. Baxter, who recently left the department to assume the management of the Niagara Fruit Growers' Limf ed.

The Fruit Branch fills an important position not only in the fruit growing industry but it is also concerned with the trade in vegetables. Its primary function was the administration of the Fruit Marks Act, under which all fruit intended for export trade was inspected to see that it carried brands that corresponded with the character and uniformity of the fruit throughout the package. Reporting on the fruit crop conditions has also been a duty of this branch. For many years it has issued for five summer months—June to October—a printed monthly fruit report. During the past eight years it has also issued a telegraphed market report twice a week during the period of heavy movement, and once a week thereafter.

A further development of the work of this branch has been in relation to transportation, which for fruit is a matter of utmost importance. Since the organization of the Transportation Division some five years ago, an intimate relationship between the fruit and vegetable producer and the transportation companies has been developed. In the capacity of Transportation Specialist, Mr. McIntosh has been constantly on the move from coast to coast endeavoring to bring about closer and closer co-operation between the producers, dealers and carriers. Educational and experimental undertakings have been carried through. Tariff and traffic regulations intended to promote the general welfare of the fruit and vegetable industries have been amended. This has been carried on by conference with railway, express and steamship officials, who have responded readily to the reasonable recommendations made. Major traffic matters requiring adjustment have been dealt with through the Board of Railway Commissioners, which have resulted in great satisfaction to the fruit growing and vegetable growing industries.

Following experimental shipments of tender fruit, alterations in the interior construction of refrigerator cars have been brought about. The change has been of such a character as to ensure the better condition on delivery of fruit moved to long distance markets.

Before entering upon this work Mr. McIntosh was engaged by the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association to investigate marketing conditions and transportation facilities for the province of Ontario. Mr. McIntosh's experience in these various capacities have amply prepared him for his present more responsible office.

Had Splendid View Of Sun's Eclipse

Astronomers Highly Pleased at Success of Photographic Plate

The astronomers had a splendid view of the solar eclipse from Woolal, near Broome, Australia, according to a despatch to the London Times from Perth. The sky was cloudless, and the observations were most successful. The United States expedition from Melbourne, headed by Prof. W. Campbell, Director of Lick Observatory, saw a corona 40,000 miles wide, from which four long streamers of light shot forth, one extending 2,500,000 miles from the sun's centre, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne. The duration of the totality of the eclipse was four seconds shorter, and began fifteen seconds later than had been predicted.

The United States astronomers are said to be highly pleased at the success of the photographic plate, taken with the purpose of verifying Einstein's theory of relativity, namely, the bending path of a ray of light in its passage through the sun's gravitational field.

The Race Between Nations in the Development of Aircraft

The Daily Chronicle's Aviation Correspondent, writing on the race between nations in the development of aircraft, refers to a British-winged aerial-cruiser now being completed by the Fairy Aviation Company.

Many features of it are official secrets. It is constructed of metal, develops not far short of 3,000 horsepower, and will be capable of long overseas flights without alighting for fuel. The weight is 15 tons.

Another levathan of the British Air Service, says the correspondent is a great winged troop transport with a hull of steel tubing, capable of carrying 25 soldiers with their full equipment for long distances.
